Define Leadership, Management and Supervision

Leadership is a verb, not a noun. It is what you do.

Consider the following:

- I see myself as a leader.
- I currently have a Leadership Action Plan or leadership goals for myself.

What is Leadership?

- Leadership is drawing people together to identify shared values and goals and then formulating plans to achieve them.

What is Management?

- Management is overseeing activities to carry out a plan and accomplish goals, including planning, organizing, delegating and coordinating activities.

What is Supervision?

- Supervision is guiding production and procedures of a staff to accomplish a delegated goal or objective.

1. I see myself as a leader. Select: YES NO Explain Why or Why Not.

2. I currently have a Leadership Action Plan or leadership skills you are working on. Explain.
