Attachment and Separation

Review the Developmental Milestones Chart located in the resource section of the SR Hub paying close attention to developmentally healthy attachment behavior.

Observe an experienced co-worker conducting a field visit on one of the cases you have been assigned to shadow. You may instead have an experienced co-worker observe you conducting the field visit if your supervisor deems it appropriate. When the visit is complete, answer the following questions.

1.	List behaviors exhibited by parent and/or child that indicate a healthy attachment (Include examples):
2.	List behaviors exhibited by parent and/or child that indicates attachment may be problematic (Include examples):

3. If you have reviewed attachment behaviors in your coursework, please use your critical thinking skills to speculate as to what happens to children's attachment relationship to their parents once they are separated (removed from parent's care). If you have not yet covered this topic in school, please ask a co-worker to briefly describe child-caregiver attachment, as well as the different styles of attachment, if possible. Please write your thoughts on the effect that separation may have on child attachment to primary caregivers here:
